EXPLORATORY CASK SERIES

Port may be the most recognizable fortified wine from Portugal, but Moscatel de Setubal is a Portuguese staple.

Artfully produced on the Setubal Peninsula near Lisbon in the south of Portugal, Moscatel is a truly unique fortified wine to the region with robust citrus and rich sweetness. These aromatic casks were used for a decade before making their way across the Atlantic to Doc Swinson's maturation house to be filled with bourbon.

After several months of aging, expressive notes of orange zest, honey and toffee complement the rich spices of Doc Swinson's Bourbon.

DESCRIPTION

There's a whole group of spirituous delights out there that rarely make it to the American market, let alone outside of the region they are crafted in.

Whether these beverages are super rare or just atypical for the American palate, we found them to be excellent and want to share some of these tasty flavors with you.

Our efforts are fueled by our drive to explore new flavor combinations and bring them to you.
